

Warning notice

Dear Customer,

in the past, inspections of containers carrying stone, marble, granite and similar materials have regularly revealed the following defects. Although your container has not been inspected separately, we would like to expressly point out to you, for your own safety, that your container may also have one or more sources of danger.

1. Overloading

Often the actual weights deviate considerably from the weight stated in the B/L. It has already happened that containers even exceeded the maximum permissible gross weight. Please check in time if the containers can only be taken over with suitable transport units (heavy cargo / 40to limit).

2. Toxic substances

Often the containers are marked with a fumigation warning (skull and crossbones). A Freimesszertifikat/Defumigation certificate is not available to OOCL and is not known here. Such a container is therefore considered to be fumigated.

3. Cargo securing

Often the cargoes in the containers are not secured. In some cases there are considerable free spaces which can lead to dangerous cargo shifting.

Please note that this experience could also affect your container and act in the interest of your safety and that of your customers or subcontractors.

If you would like us to inspect the container, albeit at a cost, please do not hesitate to contact us.
