Manila North Harbour (MICT) Terminal Operations Update

Dear Valued Customer(s),

We are writing to inform you that Manila North Harbour had announced regarding some delays in terminal transactions since last night. This delay was due to longer time consumed of their system maintenance. They will continue to clear backlog of trucks today. They forecast that things will begin to normalize tonight and terminal full normal operations will be back around 0700hrs tomorrow.

We will keep you posted as soon as we received further update from them.
